AS EARLY as 1890, the Eagle Pencil Company had developed a fountain pen in which a rubber tube carried the ink from a glass vial to the nib. Thirteen years later came the famous Eagle "Flash" — the self-filling pen which revolutionized the world's writing. Constant research and scientific development have culminated in Eagle "Flash-Fill", the perfected single-stroke-vacuum pen, and in the Eagle "Gold Standard" line of lever-filling pens. Every one of these superb pens is made by skilled craftsmen from the finest possible materials and is unconditionally guaranteed against any defect in material or workmanship — a guarantee backed by over 80 years of nation-wide confidence in the world's largest manufacturer of writing implements.

EAGLE "FLASH-FILL"

From clip to tip these matchless single-stroke-vacuum pens combine all the latest improvements in fountain pen manufacture to give you smooth writing, great ink capacity and lasting service.

- The clip is set high on the cap so that the pen seats deep in the pocket.
- The "Vischold" clip (U.S. Patents 1,916,853—2,022,416—D 93,681) with spring steel reinforcement never loses its tension.
- A safety liner cap prevents leakage and keeps the nib moist for instant writing.
- The plunger bar is made of hard rubber over steel—no breakage or corrosion.
- Seven layers of felt and rubber in the packing chamber prevent leakage.
- The valve is of soft rubber over steel for positive, trouble-free action.
- The transparent figures in the pyrex barrel reveal your ink supply.
- One stroke of the plunger fills the pen completely—twice the ink capacity of the lever-filling pens.
- The nib is of 14 karat solid gold—immune to tarnish or corrosion by ink acids.
- The semi-iridium cap is expertly hand ground for smooth, free-flowing writing.

This metal-edged, Fabrikoid case is available at a slight additional cost for all "Flash-Fill" sets.

MAT STAMPING in gold or aluminum (as illustrated on the fountain pen) is particularly attractive on dark, opaque, and pearl plastic barrels. On the first order, there is a charge for the steel die and a per gross charge for imprinting. On subsequent orders, there is no die charge.

PRINTING (as shown on the mechanical pencil) can be done from rubber plates in any color or combination of two colors you desire. We recommend # for light opaque or white essence pearl barrels. Unless the imprint requires special type or set work, as in the reproduction of trade-marks, there is no die charge, only a per gross charge for imprinting governed by the number of colors.
